Ex Libris and CLA Announce the Winner of the W. Kaye Lamb Award for Service to Seniors

(8 May 2012, Ottawa) – Ex Libris Association and the Canadian Library Association are pleased to announce that the Coquitlam Public Library is the winner of the Kaye Lamb Award for exceptional library service to senior citizens for 2011/12.

As a key part of their Strategic Plan, the Coquitlam Public Library provides not only an extremely wide range of services to their seniors but ones that show an outstanding degree of creativity and imagination. It was also gratifying to find that from the submissions offered by libraries across Canada: medium sized and small, like the Cape Breton Regional Library System and the Shelburne Public Library in Ontario, an exceptionally high quality service to seniors, service comparable to even the largest libraries, was being made available. It is truly evident that libraries in Canada serve their senior citizens well".

The Coquitlam Public Library will receive a plaque and a cheque for $ 500.

The Ex Libris Association is the Canadian national association of persons interested in historical and current issues about archives, libraries, publishing houses, and related institutions and the people working in them.

The Canadian Library Association / Association canadienne des bibliothèques is Canada's largest national and broad-based library association, representing the interests of public, academic, school and special libraries, professional librarians and library workers, and all those concerned about enhancing the quality of life of Canadians through information and literacy.
